“Making Valentine’s Brownies”

Forgo the box of generic chocolates and bake a batch of these easy (personalized!) Valentine’s Day brownies for your nearest and dearest. Make it the finale of a romantic Valentine’s dinner or a fun Valentine’s Day craft to make with the kids.

These decadent homemade treats are super chocolatey thanks to two types of chocolate and cocoa and are absolutely worth the calories, but if you’re pressed for time, a boxed brownie mix would be just as sweet. Use store-bought frosting (thinned with a little water if too thick) for pouring out your heart in writing or just indulging in your favorite Valentine’s day puns!

Ingredients:

- 3/4 c. unsalted butter
- 4 oz. unsweetened chocolate
- 4 oz. semisweet chocolate
- 1/2 c. all-purpose flour
- 1/2 c. unsweetened cocoa powder
- 3/4 tsp. salt
- 6 large eggs
- 1 c. granulated sugar
- 1 c. packed brown sugar
- 2 tsp. vanilla extract
- Vanilla frosting, for decorating

Directions

- Step 1

Heat oven to 350°F. Line 13-inch by 9-inch pan with foil; grease foil.

- Step 2

In 3-quart saucepan, melt butter and chocolates on low, stirring. Remove from heat.

- Step 3

In bowl, whisk flour, cocoa and salt. In large bowl, with electric mixer on high speed, beat eggs until blended. Gradually add sugars; beat until tripled in volume, about 10 minutes.

- Step 4

Fold in chocolate mixture and vanilla, then flour mixture. Pour into pan. Bake until toothpick inserted near center comes out almost clean, 28 to 32 minutes.

- Step 5

Once cool, cut brownies into hearts freehand or using a heart-shaped cookie cutter. (Tip: Don't let the trimmings go to waste — you can even crumble them onto a sundae!)

- Step 6

Pipe on store-bought frosting to create cute chocolate "conversation hearts."

Once you're done with the island-hopping adventure, it's time for some romantic night out. The spot you go to is Nusa Resto Pulau Pramuka. You reach the restaurant and already your nose starts to tingle. You sense their fresh raw ingredients, ready to be cooked and consumed. As you get closer, the aroma of barbecued squid mixed with delicious herbs and spices fill the air!

Here, a romantic dinner means seeing the golden sunset as you enjoy your delicious food. Listen to the soothing sounds of the waves and the seagulls. Chatters can be heard but the beautiful music of the sea overpowers them. Thousand Islands will indeed create memories for your couple trip.

Sight:

Every couple needs to unwind and relax together. The best spot for this is Jakarta's Thousand Islands. It's not far from the center of the capital city; you can easily reach this site from Ancol Marina Port for around 20 minutes to 2.5 hours, depending on which island you go. Take your partner to Pulau Tidung's Love Bridge and sight the island's blue skies and pristine sea. Take adventures together as you sight the vibrant marine life below.

Sense:

Plunge into its water as you dive and explore its marine life. Absorb the fresh sensation of its cool tides. Feel the deep serenity of the sea, taking you to its otherworldly sceneries. Once you're back to shore, try and experience the soft sand touching your toes in Pulau Sepa. Soak up the warmth of the sun as both of you sunbathe on its white sand.

“World Radio Day”

Following a request from the Spanish Radio Academy on 20 September 2010, Spain proposed that the UNESCO Executive Board include an agenda item on the proclamation of a World Radio Day. UNESCO's Executive Board is the agenda item in its provisional agenda for the proclamation of a “World Radio Day” on 29 September 2011. UNESCO carried out a wide consultation in 2011 with diverse stakeholders, such as broadcasting associations, UN agencies, fund and programmes, relevant NGO's, foundations and bilateral development agencies, as well as UNESCO Permanent Delegations and National Commissions for UNESCO.

The Board recommended to the UNESCO 36th session of the General Conference that it proclaim a World Radio Day as its 36th session of the General Conference that it proclaim a World Radio Day at its 36th session and that this day is celebrated by UNESCO on 13 February, the anniversary of the day that the United Nations established the United Nations Radio in 1946. It also invited all United Nations Member States, organizations, professional associations, and broadcasting unions, as well as civil society, including non-governmental organizations and individuals, to duly celebrate World Radio Day, in the way that each considers most adequate. The board further requested that UNESCO's Director-General bring the resolution to the attention of the Secretary-General of the United Nations so that World Radio Day could be endorsed by the General Assembly and celebrated by the whole system. The matter was subsequently treated by UNESCO's General Conference, which adopted resolution contained in file 36C/63. World Radio Day was thus unanimously proclaimed by all Member of UNESCO in November 2011.

“5 Interesting Facts About Valentine's Day Around the World”

Flowers, cards, chocolates, romantic dinners. Valentine's Day is filled with this and more as couples – and giddy retailers- observe the Feb 14 holiday. Have you ever wondered how other countries celebrate Valentine's Day? Or even if they have their own variation of it? Below are five countries with their own takes on the holiday for the love-struck.

1. Japan – Life is like a box of chocolates

Valentine's Day in Japan sees women giving chocolates to men. There are two types of chocolates given too, according to the Only in Japan website. One type is given to friends, co-workers, and close male friends and has no romantic connotation attached. The chocolates meant for a significant other tend to be homemade, as giving store-bought chocolates in this case isn't seen as a sign of true love. The men return the favor on March 14, also known as “White Day”. The color of the chocolate given tends to be white and tends to be given along with the traditional Valentine's Day gifts like flowers, candies and so forth. This should be adopted in the United States for men who forget about Valentine's Day to have a chance to redeem themselves.

2. South Korea – Reminding you of how single you are

Similar to Japan, South Koreans observe Feb 14 with women giving chocolate and gifts to the men. With the tables turning on March 14 when the men do the same for the women. However, there's a day in April devoted to the sadly single. April 14, or “Black Day”, is observed by singles drowning their sorrows of solo status in a dark bowl of noodles covered in a black bean paste sauce called “jajangmyeon.”

3. South Africa – When subtlety just isn't enough

Tradition in South Africa has women wearing their hearts on their sleeves. Derived from the ancient Roman tradition of Lupercalia, the women will pin the names of their crush on their sleeves for all the world to see. Not a bad idea when the crush in question doesn't pick up on subtle hints.

4. Brazil – Let a patron saint help you out

Brazil has Dia dos Namorados, or "Lover's Day" on June 12 with flowers, chocolates, cards and festivities. Not so dissimilar to the American Valentine's Day, which Brazilians skip in favor of Carnival taking place at that time. Lover's Day is followed by St. Anthony's Day, a day on which single women perform rituals called "simpatias" to appeal to the patron saint of marriage to help them find a husband.

5. Wales – The gift of spooning

The Welsh equivalent of Valentine's Day is St. Dwynmen's Day and is observed Jan 25. A custom tied to this day involves young men carving ornate wooden spoons and offering them as a gift to girls they love. While gifts of sweets and the like to a young lady weren't out of the question, historically, the ornate spoon, carved by the love-struck male admirer, was considered a far more personal gift. If the girl was interested and accepted the gift, a relationship commenced.
